Weekly Update

Welcome back!

This week we have been welcoming new arrivals, visiting local parks, and making delicious homemade snacks!

From Tuesday, 31st August, we began receiving new and returning pupils back to Anchor House. It is such a delight to see the house filling up again! Between beach walks, ping-pong tournaments, and football kickabouts, we've also found time to visit two different parks this week and pick blackberries for homemade crumble.

We've also begun learning our SIX ETHICS OF LIFE. The first three are:

1

BEFORE YOU SPEAK, LISTEN

2

BEFORE YOU SPEND, EARN

3

BEFORE YOU QUIT, TRY

Happy Birthday, Kevin!

Our oldest Year 8 pupil turned 13 on Thursday! Although he was still in quarantine at the time, we sang to him from the garden and shared cupcakes to celebrate!

First Beach Visit

The mud along Fleetwood Beach is supposed to be good for the skin... Some of our pupils were not so sure.

Fleetwood Park

On Saturday morning, Mr Gair showed the children how to safely manoeuvre the climbing bars...

Welcome, Dr and Mrs Cherukara!

In addition to all the new pupils arriving this week, we have also welcomed our new deputy houseparents, Dr and Mrs Cherukara. Dr Cherukara is from Sussex, and he is a Maths teacher in senior school. Mrs Cherukara is originally from the USA; she is currently finishing her PhD in the Classics faculty at the University of Oxford.

Both Dr and Mrs Cherukara enjoy cooking and baking, singing and playing various musical instruments, walking outdoors, reading, and playing boardgames. Mrs Cherukara likes doing anything crafty; Dr Cherukara likes to be quizzed on geography and anything map-related.

BERRIES, VEGGIES, AND CHOCOLATE, OH MY!

Stanley Park

On Saturday afternoon, Mrs Gair and Mrs Cherukara took the children to Stanley Park, in Blackpool, where we enjoyed the giant swings, ate ice cream, and fed the swans (and pigeons!).
